

SILO ETHIOPIA NEWSLETTER

Dear Siloam Supporters,

Thank you so much for your prayers, encouragement, and generous support. We are grateful to share some wonderful news about what God has been doing for our children.

The Need

As you know, our children had been living in a very difficult and unstable situation, moving from one house to another without a permanent place to call home. When I returned from a mission trip in March, I began searching for a home in the same area where the children were living. By God's grace, I found a very nice house that could accommodate all of our children under one roof and provide them with the stability and security they desperately needed.

The Campaign

We launched a campaign to raise $35,000 to purchase the property.

Thank God for our wonderful supporters—we successfully raised the entire amount needed!

However, the purchasing process was very different from what we are accustomed to in the United States. It was complicated and took much longer than we expected. There were many steps and challenges along the way, but God continued to guide us through the process.

Finally, we received all the necessary documents and officially took possession of the house. We then made the necessary repairs, painted the house, and furnished it so the children could move into a safe and comfortable home.

A New Beginning

One of my greatest concerns was bringing together two groups of children from different families, each with their own established habits, routines, and ways of living, under one roof and under the care of a single mother.

To make this transition successful, we established clear house rules and sought the wisdom, guidance, and encouragement of others.

On August 29, the children officially moved into their new home.

This was truly a new beginning for our family—a place where the children can grow together, support one another, and experience the stability and love of a family.

celebration & another victory

We also have another wonderful victory to celebrate! While I was in Harar, our oldest daughter graduated from high school. Her national examination results were released while I was there, and she passed! We are grateful to everyone who has prayed, encouraged us, and helped make this new beginning possible. This would not have happened without your support. May God bless you richly for standing with Siloam and with our children.

With gratitude and prayer
